A BIT OF HEAVEN IN '47

By PAUL D. EMMONS

Well, in a little run-in between a Wilmington assessor, who in this instance happens to be one of the fair sex, and Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long, the possibilities of taxes involved that all assessors should be hearless.

Question: How could he expect one of the fair sex to be hearless?

Well, apparently she wasn't for the town of Wilmington has a $40 tax rate for 1947, as against the $45 rate which Long wanted us to have.

That leaves us a little leeway for the future. It won't take us so long or Long to get up to that $100 rate which the cities and towns are headed for.

Taxes are what make government odious. In a little run-in which this reporter had with the assessor Tax Commissioner recently that point was brought home to him.

The point at issue was the determination of the value of an estate which had among its assets certain notes of hand given by the midday legate to the testatrix for money he had borrowed from her in her lifetime. As of the date of her death the debt, aside from the money he received under the terms of the will, only had sufficient assets of his own to pay him one third of the face value of these notes.

Furthermore, the estate was small and would be practically all the legate would have for the future, as he was jobless, advanced in years, and in poor health.

Obviously, a case of "have a heart," and I see represented it to the big mogul.

He didn't agree with my point of view, and after considerable argument finally remarked, "All right, you take the notes and we'll take the rest of the estate."

As that would have given him very much more than the face value of the notes, this reporter encountered with the remarks, "Oh no, we won't do anything like that for that would make government even more odious than it already through taxes."

This seemed to make an impression, and finally resulted in our compromising at a figure which represented a little more than half the additional amount of taxes which the Commonwealth was demanding.

Henry F. Long is not the type which his "hearless" remarks might seem to indicate. On the contrary, he is a very good fellow, genial and accommodating. He is also one of the hardest working and most conscientious public officials we have.

His job is a very important and difficult one—especially under present-day conditions. His many years of experience, and close application to the work have made him exceptionally well equipped to handle it.

Massachusetts is fortunate to have a man of his integrity and ability to hold down this important post.

But let's hope that we won't have to boost taxes as much as he wants us to!

SPRAY BIG AREA HERE

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., July 30.—Using airplanes in their war against the spruce moth No. 1 shade tree pest of New England, tree experts said today spraying 20,000 acres of eastern Massachusetts woodland. It was reported today.
 Ralph B. Mooney, area manager of the Bartlett Tree Expert Company, said this spraying job represented the most intensive attack on the spruce moth ever made by airplane spraying.
 In addition, he said DDT was used in most towns and boroughs and that insecticide helps curb mosquitoes and other destructive insects as well as the spruce moth. Most of the operations were carried out in the early morning and evening hours to take advantage of favorable thermal currents.

Typical of the work to be done in virus research is that outlined under a five-year grant of $106,000 to the University of Pennsylvania, where a comprehensive study of the metabolic processes of nerve cells will be undertaken to determine how these processes are modified by the poliovirus. At New York University the search will be directed for chemical agents which might prevent or cure the disease, and at the University of Pittsburgh the physical and chemical and biological nature of the virus will be investigated with the hope of unveiling the reasons for prevention of the disease by means of drug therapy or a vaccine.
 In the field of after-effects, studies seek to determine the value of electrical stimulation as a treatment for poliomyelitis, and two five-year grants are awarded by the University of California Medical School are aimed respectively at discovering the growth rate of the virus as a basis for the development of more effective surgical procedures, and the analysis of the mechanics of walking as a basis for the development of better braces.
 Grants made for education and service programs were awarded the following institutions and lecturers among others: Chicago School of Physiotherapy, Lect. School of Physiotherapy, American Physiotherapy Association, Provisional Association of Medical Librarians, American Association of Medical Social Workers, and the Nashville School of Social Work.
 Funds were also provided for Negroes for fellowships in orthopedics, pediatrics and neurology, and additional sums were earmarked for the development of post-graduate instruction in physical medicine at Meharry Medical College.

The longest fight on record for any handball is that of an Argentine handballer at Turin, Italy, Labrador, and found on the beach at Margate on the east coast of Scotland. The short possible distance between the points is 8,000 miles and the probable course would be around 10,000 miles.

Your Children - Or Bridge?

At the time the intruder sneaked into the house, the papers tell us, the parents of the little girl were away from home attending what was described as a bridge game.

We hope that the would-be attacker of this little Greater-Boston girl is given the full measure of punishment provided by law for such cases.

We hope, as well, that a lesson is learned from this case that will be of benefit to parents who are interested in the lives of their children.

An eight-year-old girl alone in her home near the midnight hour, unprotected by the parental vigilance that should have been hers.

The parents were at a bridge game.

It seems to us they cared more their own pastime than for the safety and welfare of their child.

Fortunately the child is alive and well.

But no credit is due the parents who went out that night and left their small child unprotected in her home.

Too many parents are the indirect cause of tragedy overtaking the little ones they profess to love.

It is an indication of the theme many churchmen have preached—namely, home doesn't seem to mean much any more.

In a neighboring Greater-Boston community the other night, at an hour close to midnight, an eight-year-old girl was snatched from her bed by an intruder, carried to an isolated spot nearby and was made a victim of attempted criminal attack.

Fortunately the attempted violation of the child did not succeed.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Combs announce the birth of a son, Gordon Gates, at the Winchester Hospital, on Wednesday, July 16. Mrs. Combs is convalescing at hospital and will return to her home in the near future.

Factor and office workers interested in their own safety and security should remember that off the job accidents can cause loss of work just as easily as accidents which occur at work. Lost time is lost, and safety experts of the National Conservation Bureau, no matter where or when accidents occur. Remember over a third more accidents occur away from the job than while at work.

"ROCK" SET FOR OPENER

SALEM, N. H.—Now that Mass. achieves handicaps has become part of New England's racing lore, and now that the Suffolk Downs meeting will turn towards cool, rural Rockingham Park, where an 18-day summer meeting will start a week from Monday, 5-5.
 Last Sunday, executive director of the meeting and one of the nation's top racing promoters, announced once again today that post time for the first race each day will be 1:15; that post time for the eighth race, had post actors and other unavoidable delays permitting, will be approximately 4:45; and that there will be only a 25 minute interval between races.

Part of the strength of greyhound racing in neighboring Massachusetts, in his opinion, is based upon the speed with which the 10 night races are run off. It is a fast action, as the boys would put it, and both the boys and the girls seem to date on fast action. In addition, Smith said, into account the present popularity of both dog-racing and night baseball, he'll finish his day.
